ABOUT NASPE

The National Association of State Personnel Executives (NASPE), a non-profit organization, was established in 1977 to enhance communication and the exchange of information among personnel executives across the country.

NASPE provides educational resources for its members and a forum to share best practices in state human resource management through meetings, publications, surveys, and online discussion forums.

NASPE's mission is to provide a collaborative forum for State HR leaders to share effective leading practices.

NASPE is an affiliate organization of The Council of State Governments (CSG).

BACKGROUND & GOALS

State Employee Recognition Day was initiated in 2001 under the leadership of then NASPE President Donna Traywick and then South Carolina Governor Jim Hodges in partnership with the National Governors Association (NGA). NASPE and NGA joined forces to ask the governors and state human resources officers to coordinate their efforts during National Public Service Recognition Week to recognize the important contributions of state employees. Since then, response to the initiative has grown significantly as states report some kind of recognition event for their employees.

State Employee Recognition Day is an excellent opportunity to express appreciation to state employees at a time when their dedication is even more valued and appreciated. Recognition is a powerful motivator, and it contributes to higher employee morale, increases organizational productivity, and aids in recruitment and retention.

State Employee Recognition Day is also an excellent time to spotlight the achievements and contributions of state employees in the workplace and in our communities. The image of state employees is strengthened when citizens see people they know, who happen to be state employees, working to better their communities. Publicizing the good things state employees are doing can go a long way in educating the public and making employees feel appreciated and valued.

NASPE's State Employee Recognition Day Guide provides specific information on preparing for and implementing the day in your state. States may start planning early in order to take an active role in recognizing those who do a great job for state government every day! In a time when state government budgets are tight, special activities may seem too expensive, but there are several low cost activities that states can do. Included in this packet are suggested activities and events, sample language for social media and recording scripts, and templates for proclamations, press releases and agency letters.

States will be celebrating May 10 with awards, radio interviews, newspaper articles, and various other celebrations. Many governors will be releasing proclamations and press alerts in late April or early May declaring May 10 as State Employee Recognition Day. Please take time on this day to show appreciation to your state employees for their dedication to public service.

PRESS RELEASE TEMPLATE

[Your State's Name] Celebrates State Employee Recognition Day

[City, State] - May 10, 2023 - Today, [STATE OR COMMONWEALTH] is proud to celebrate State Employee Recognition Day, a day dedicated to honoring the hard work and dedication of all state employees.

[GOVERNOR] stated, "I am honored to recognize the contributions of our state employees, who work tirelessly to serve our citizens and make [STATE OR COMMONWEALTH] a better place to live. They are the backbone of our state government, and their commitment to public service is truly commendable."

State Employee Recognition Day is an opportunity for all citizens of [STATE OR COMMONWEALTH] to show their appreciation for the valuable services that state employees provide. From maintaining roads and bridges to ensuring public safety, from providing vital health care services to protecting our natural resources, state employees are on the front lines of serving our communities every day.

State employees also play a critical role in responding to emergencies, from natural disasters to public health crises. Throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, state employees have gone above and beyond to provide essential services and support to our citizens. Their dedication and resilience have been a shining example of what it means to be a public servant.

On State Employee Recognition Day, we encourage all citizens to take a moment to thank a state employee for their hard work and dedication. Whether it's a simple thank you or a thoughtful note, your words of appreciation can go a long way in recognizing the important contributions that state employees make to our communities.

Today, we honor the contributions of all state employees, and we thank them for their unwavering commitment to public service. Happy State Employee Recognition Day, [STATE OR COMMONWEALTH]!

LETTER TO AGENCY HR DIRECTORS TEMPLATE

Dear [Agency Director's Name]:

[STATE OR COMMONWEALTH] will join states across the nation in celebrating Public Service Recognition Week during the week of May 7-13, 2023. Public Service Recognition Week is set aside annually to honor public employees and to educate the public about the many ways government workers make life better for all Americans.

Again this year during Public Service Recognition Week, the governors and state human resources offices of all states will coordinate their efforts on Wednesday, May 10, 2023, to celebrate the important contributions of state employees.

The Office of the Governor and the [State Office of Human Resources] are spearheading [STATE OR COMMONWEALTH's] state-level celebration that will focus on recognizing all employees of state government for the invaluable contributions they make to the quality of life in our state. We will promote public awareness via a proclamation by [GOVERNOR] and other types of promotions.

This year we are asking each state agency to plan at least one activity to recognize the employees within your agency sometime during the week of May 7-13, preferably on May 10. These recognition events do not have to relate to employee cost savings efforts, although you may certainly include these kinds of recognitions if you wish.

[ADD IDEAS FOR ACTIVITIES AND EVENTS]

We look forward to hearing about your agency's recognition events, and we appreciate your joining us in expressing appreciation to your agency's employees and to the thousands of other dedicated men and women who devote their careers to serving the people of [STATE OR COMMONWEALTH].

Please feel free to contact our office if you have questions or need additional information regarding this initiative.

Sincerely,
[STATE HR DIRECTOR]
